

Notes From Workshop #1: Building A Network

JANUARY 22, 2013

On October 24, 2012, over three dozen participants, representing foundations, artists, NGOs, city and neighborhood agencies, planners, architects, landscape architects, among many others, convened at the Boston Society of Architects for a “brainstorming roundtable” emphasizing challenges, solutions, and action steps aimed at a more robust and vigorous environment for art in Greater Boston’s public places.

From that event there emerged a new working group—BostonAPP/Lab—to sponsor a monthly series of sessions devoted to identifying how, by whom, and by what actions these and other challenges would be met.
